

‘English, French and the French of England: Late medieval encounters’ Workshop 9th September 2019, University of Westminster

Pavilion room, University of Westminster, 115 Cavendish Street, London W1W 6UW

Attendance free

For further information, contact Professor Richard Ingham r.ingham@westminster.ac.uk

Programme

10.15 Welcome

10.30 Louise Sylvester (University of Westminster): ‘Categorising bilingual lexis’

11.00 Marianne Ailes (University of Bristol): ‘Transnational textual transmission: Anglo-Norman and continental France’

11.30 Jocelyn Wogan-Browne (Fordham University) ‘“Cherchant toute Egypte pour les bons homes”: French as a World Language for Women in Late Medieval England’

12.00-12.30 Panel discussion

12.30-1.30 Lunch in the refectory (same building)

1.30 Catherine Batt (University of Leeds): ‘The Language of Fourteenth-Century Prayer’

2.00 Jane Roberts (King’s College London): tbc

3.00 Thomas Hinton (University of Exeter): ‘The Trilingualism of Walter de Bibbesworth’s Tretiz’

3.30-4.15 Panel discussion and tea

4.15 Catherine Léglu (University of Reading): ‘Consuming biblical texts: food and beasts in late-medieval insular French translation-adaptations of the Vulgate’

4.45 Liam Lewis (University of Warwick): ‘Language Contact with the Non-human and the Formation of Audience Subjectivity in the Tretiz by Walter de Bibbesworth’

5.00-5.30 Panel discussion

5.30 Workshop concludes

This workshop is sponsored by Language Acts and Worldmaking, King’s College

lānguāgē ācts and worldmāking

