Symposium on Palaeontological Preparation and Conservation

21st September 2022 at the Natural History Museum, London.

Organised by the Natural History Museum and the Geological Curators Group

#SPPC2022 will take place at the Natural History Museum, London, in conjunction with the Symposium on Vertebrate Palaeontology and Comparative Anatomy. Platform presentations will take place in the morning, with time during tea break and lunch for delegates to view posters. Tours of the Conservation Centre and collection highlights will take place in the afternoon, bookable on a first come first served basis.

Abstracts will be considered on any topic of conservation or preparation – including all work undertaken to prepare palaeontological or geological material for research, teaching, storage, display, etc. Presentations from previous years can be viewed here.

Registration is now open at <https://svpca2020.com/symposium-on-palaeontological-preparation-and-conservation/>
