

LYDIA DAVIS

“EGG, ÆG, EI, OEUF, UGH: THOUGHTS ABOUT
LANGUAGES, TRANSLATIONS, AND WRITING”

Please join us for an informal talk by Lydia Davis, master translator from the French (Proust, Flaubert, Blanchot, Leiris) and “one of the most original minds in American fiction today” (The New Yorker). The talk will be followed by a discussion with Professor Alice Kaplan (Yale, Department of French), as well as a q and a with the audience.

APRIL 4TH
5:00 PM

COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LIBRARY

Old Campus,
Bingham Hall,
8th Floor
Reception to Follow

SPONSORS
Departments of Comparative Literature
and French, and the Translation Initiative